KALUANUI BEACH ROAD ASSURED

on the Chinese that they would suffer no financial loss, and that the county would bear all of the expense of moving the buildings and floors.

An agreement was finally reached whereby the Chinese would do their own moving, the county to pay a stipulated sum to recompense them for their expense. The total cost will amount to $2340. In return for this money, every rice floor will be taken away and all houses will be moved. The Chinese, doing their own moving, take all of the risk upon themselves, so the county is released from all liability for damages.

Had it been necessary to resort to condemnation proceedings, the county would not have been able to start construction work for two months at the least.

At tonight's meeting of the Board of Supervisors, the road committee will present its report for approval. That committee out of the way, and all will be clear for the next stage in the proceedings. Tomorrow morning, bids will be advertised for, and within two weeks the first gangs will be put to work.

Maps are now being drawn for the Kaluana beach section, and the first of next week, bids for that work will be called for. There is less work to be done at Kaluana, and that stretch will be completed before the Kaluana piece, in all probability.

After preliminary work on these two road projects has been disposed of, the road committee will turn its attention to the Heala Beach road. The maps for this work have not yet been started, and it will probably be several weeks before work there can be commenced.

Nevertheless, it is believed that all three of the beach roads can be completed by December 1, Chairman Quinn of the road department is determined to have the work disposed of at the earliest possible moment, and County Engineer Gere is just as anxious as Quinn. Gere was largely responsible for securing the right of way through the kuleanas, and he is highly commended by the Supervisors for his work.

With the completion of the work on the three beach stretches, the round-the-island route will be practically as good as a city street, and the old danger of quicksands will cease to exist.

WANTS EIGHTY FEET FOR HILO STREET
Hilo Tribune.—The matter of the widening of Front street, in accordance with the agreement with C. A. Brown by which the County was given a twenty foot strip of the Brown property in exchange for the building of a sidewalk and retaining wall and for moving the buildings on the land back, occupied a great deal of the time at the recent meeting of the Board of Supervisors. Deha filed a report showing that it was estimated that the work would cost $2897. According to his plans the road would be sixty feet wide.

KOHALA FOREST RESERVE SOON

The Kohala forest reserve business, which has been hanging fire since 1904, bids fare to be gotten out of the way.

Marston Campbell is now working on the matter, and expects to have everything ready to bring before the Board of Agriculture at today's meeting.

There is some 27,000 acres of land concerned in the forest reserve project, and the question of titles has been the cause of more than a little trouble. The lines of the reserve were set years ago, but that is about as far as the matter ever progressed. A large part of the land belongs to the government, but many private parties are also vitally interested.

In several instances, it has seemed to be wise to have the Territory obtain title to certain parcels of land embraced in the reserve, and this has required endless negotiating.

Now Marston Campbell, Land Commissioner, is preparing for Marston Campbell, president of the Board of Agriculture and Forestry, a report on the present state of affairs. This will be duly presented, the recommendations made will be carried out, and the whole business will be put up to the board for its approval.

A considerable part of the government land lying within the boundaries of the Kohala forest reserve, is let on long term leases. Other large stretches within the reserve confines belong to the Parker Ranch Company, the Bishop Estate, and other large private interests.

MARKET QUIET, PRICES FIRM

There was but little trading on the 'Change yesterday, but that recorded, was generally at prices even better than those which prevailed through last week. There were plenty of people ready to buy, but holders of stock manifested no anxiety to sell.

Ewa, which sold between boards at 30.75, brought 30.875 during the session, in small blocks. Those who had the stock were holding out for 31, however, so there was very little trading done.

Pioneer, which sold Saturday at 186, advanced to 186.50, with but little in sight. Only two small blocks were sold, each consisting of five shares.

Oahu Sugar sold at 32, a drop of one-eighth from the figure of the last sale recorded last week. Only twenty-five shares were sold. During the session the price dropped a little and the stock closed at 31.75 bid, 32 asked.

IMPROVEMENTS AT MCGREGOR'S LIGHT

Maui News.—Lighthouse Engineer A. Richley arrived in Wailuku Monday evening with a corps of assistants and has been at work since at the lighthouse at McGregors. Mr. Richley was met at McGregors Wednesday by Lieutenant Houston, who came to McGregors on the U. S. L. H. tender Kukui.

The lighthouse will probably be removed to higher ground and out of the dust from the road that so much interferes with the light now being seen at a distance. Mr. Richley is having water tanks erected for the lightkeeper.

STRIKE THE BEST THING

was vested in the hands of the executive committee that can not be investigated. That public meeting was to disarm the public, but it was a Janus-faced proposition. But in Mr. Negoro's room were found the real plans.

"These arrests in connection with the strike were not included in the plans. No records kept! Talked about a few lines in a book! Those weren't the records of what this association was doing. The records were locked in the breasts of these men."

"They needed a newspaper; they had one, just as the anarchists in Chicago had Spies paper. The Jiji received the mail of the organization. Mr. Negoro's name was found for the first time on the books of the Jiji and if those books had not been seized, we should have had most brisk denials that there was any connection between them."

The Spirit of Japan.

"The spirit of Japan! Suppose the Germans here were to sing Die Wacht am Rhein and say they were going to act with the spirit of Germany. Here's a warrant out for weeks for Hata, and it develops here that Mr. Negoro knows all the time where Hata is. If each and every man does as they do, where will everything end? A police officer has the right to call on any man for assistance. It is the price we pay for peace, for law and order."

Where has one of them lifted his hands to aid law and order? One man made translations—Mr. Sheba—and he's been reproached ever since as a traitor. There is no handling them as we handle our own people. They present a solid front. Hata attends a convention at which these four men were present, and they conceal it and glory in it.

"One man told Officer Wills, 'You'd better go away or you'll be made.' Go away from where? Make where? At Waipahu. And where's Waipahu? In the United States."

"Tint the flag of Japan red and harden the bones of your country! What's that got to do with them being here as guests? How long would we last if we were to go to Japan and give that kind of talk? We wouldn't last a minute."

"Ostracism—was it mere removal from the society of the Japanese? Where has it been applied in the sense contended for by the Jiji—mere exclusion from society? The presence of the scyophants on the plantations would not do. The utterances all go to getting them off the plantations. The scyophants were to be relentlessly ostracized as a result of the manifesto. When I advise a man what to do, as this paper advised in regard to scyophants, would I dare to stand before a jury and say: 'I didn't do it; I didn't know how it was to be done; I don't care; it was none of my business?'"

"Are you going to accept that? For they hand it out to you as long as you'll take it. They'll tell you that two and two make five."

"The ostracism intended is shown by an attack on a little girl—these brave heroes. The spirit of Japan! (Kinney referred to the poem on Sheba's wife and daughter.) 'I'm a white man; I'm not a Japanese. But I defend the Japanese against that charge. That's not the spirit of Japan.'"

"Negoro said that affair at Kihuku was a cowardly and dastardly affair. I asked him if he knew of it. He said he had heard of it. Did this jury dream then that Negoro was down there at the time and was right in the heart of it? The next day I called his hand. I asked him if he was not down there. And he said that I knew all about it."

The Cruelty of the Fanatic.

"Gentlemen, there's no man so cruel as a fanatic. I could well believe that if you took Mr. Negoro outside these things he wants to force down people's throats, you would find him kind, considerate, courteous. But a fanatic knows no mercy. It is the history of such men. Against their fanatical purposes life, death or anything else are as nothing. It is a fanatic at the helm controlling these thousands of men, establishing a government where they have no business to establish one, within the Territory of Hawaii."

"In the line of intimidation we cite these words: 'They shall not die on bed or mat'; the statement, 'If you do not believe the Jiji is read on the plantations, come out to make collections, and you will be met with torrents of fists; the little poem called 'Sheba's'; the reference to Sheba as the planters' dog."

"They say that the words, 'You shall not die on bed or mat,' refers to newspapers. Do newspapers die on beds or mats? Do you want the law to be established that they can go on intimidating by using words like that? Why should a jury hesitate to bring these men to time and teach them a lesson so that their words will be words of peace? They knew what interpretation Sheba was putting upon it. When they knew how Sheba was taking it, they should have stopped. Bear always in mind that men can't use a double meaning like that to inflame the peasants without paying the penalty. Is there no law in the land for Sheba?"

The Manhood of Sheba.

"No greater tribute to the innate manhood of Sheba can be paid than that when he made those translations he made them weaker than Deuing did."
